Oneplus 5t bug report

ONEPLUS

App Auto-Launch App Auto-Launch (on some OnePlus phones) essentially prevents apps from working in the background. OnePlus is currently working on an updated build to fix the issues and will release it soon, says the company. To avoid the system to automatically revert the not optimized setting, you must also lock the app into the 'Recent App' list, see the solution above or here. Also Read - OnePlus Nord 2T, OnePlus Nord 2 CE prices revealed ahead of official launch Along with the Nord, OnePlus also released the beta versions of Android 11 for the OnePlus 7, OnePlus 7T, OnePlus 7 Pro, and OnePlus 7T Pro devices. Sleep standby optimization OnePlus tries to learn when you are usually asleep, and in those times it will then disable the phone's network connections. OnePlus below 6: Turn off System settings > Battery > Battery optimization > (three dots) > Enhanced optimization. If you need any apps to run in background, disable it. Recent app clear behaviour manager might be set up in a way that swiping the app to close will kill it. WARNING: Recently OnePlus phones started reverting this setting randomly for random apps. However, leaks suggest that OnePlus could be jumping ships to MediaTek's Dimensity 1200 chipset. Start the app you want to protect. The locked app will have the closed padlock icon. Enhanced / Advanced optimization OnePlus 6 and further: System settings > Battery > Battery optimization > (three dots) > Advanced optimization. The Nord is currently on sale in India at a price of Re 29,999. This could make the phone more suited for high-end mobile gaming. Throughout the beta stage, OnePlus released a total of three open beta versions, before the final stable release came out. However, these phones are also in the beta testing stage and bugs are yet to be fixed for these devices. OnePlus and their OxygenOS Android modification is known for maximizing the stock Android experience. So if you set it to be not optimized, the next day it may be back to optimized. The phone launched with Oxygen OS 10 based on Android 10 and it took 120Hz AMOLED display coming on the new Nord. This may be true on the UX front but the exact opposite is valid for background process limits. On OnePlus this may however work in a different way. You'll see two options there. Long press anywhere on the window and tap the Lock button on the upper right corner of the app. This setting will prevent push notifications from being delivered. When releasing their 1+5 and 1+6 phones, OnePlus introduced one of the most severe background limits on the market to date, dwarfing even those performed by Xiaomi or Huawei. Both are enabled by default: Deep optimization or Adaptive Battery. This is the main app killer. Also Read - OnePlus Nord CE 2 Lite launch expected this month; key specifications leak OnePlus Nord Android 11 update halted The OnePlus Nord has been around since June 2020 and has been a popular choice in the sub-Rs 30,000 smartphone segment. Do note that OnePlus is only selling the top-end variant with 12GB RAM and 256GB storage in India. Android handles that well in its own. However, the initial rollout to a limited batch of devices has magnified several bugs and issues, eventually leading OnePlus to withdraw the update. Some of the popular issues found on the OnePlus community and social media include battery drain, slower charging, GPS issues, and more. You may have to check system settings every once in a while. Not only did users need to enable extra settings to make their apps work properly, but those settings even got reset with firmware updates. App locking Locking the app in the Recent app may avoid the app to be killed in background and the Battery optimisation setting to be reverted. Go to Recent apps - swipe up and hold for opening recent apps (Apps switcher). Turn off System settings > Battery > Battery optimization, switch to 'All apps' in top right menu > Your app > Don't optimize NOTE: Some of our users indicated that you need to disable Doze mode in Developer options in 1+3 and earlier. The Nord relies on the Snapdragon 765G chipset and that makes it the most affordable OnePlus 5G device you can still buy. The company reached out via an official statement to its users informing about the delay in its official release. See a bug report filed to OnePlus. Normally when you swipe an app away, it won't close. Please disable it for your app.
